

BCS Allegient offers a wide range of professional support services in business management, communications, systems engineering, analysis, mission execution, and organizational performance. We have both the experience and expertise to rapidly develop and deploy solutions to achieve critical objectives.

Program Management & Business Support

When it comes to Program Management & Business Support, BCS Allegient understands how to manage the complexities of large programs and has demonstrated experience developing and implementing strategies, methods, processes, and tools that produce the desired results. In addition, we work with public sector organizations to design and implement business solutions that improve efficiency and increase visibility into internal operations. We work closely with our clients to understand their processes and design custom solutions and tools that improve planning, reporting, and management.

Client Spotlight

Department of the Navy, Office of Naval Research (ONR)

BCS Allegiant provides executive-level support to key leaders at the ONR, an Echelon I command supported by approximately 4,000 government civilians, military personnel, and support contractors. We directly engage with command leadership and SES department heads to execute program objectives, implement policies, define process improvement initiatives, and track financial transactions that support Naval Science & Technology (S&T) investments across the Naval Research Enterprise. We have experience coordinating with strategic communication teams to plan, organize and facilitate senior leader representation at various Department of Navy (DoN) outreach venues and symposiums—regularly preparing presentations, creating graphics, generating point papers, developing talking points and other collateral communication venues for use by senior executives in their engagement with senior Naval decision-makers, key stakeholders (e.g., academia, industry, Government), S&T partners and customers.
